How Pampered Pet Dogs Are Doctored.

"Oh! Doctor, I hope you will do all you can to cure poor little Prince, for if he should die I don't know how I would get along without him." Such was the pitiful appeal a reporter heard an aristocratic young lady from West Walnut street make to a veterinary surgeon, and as the news gatherer looked on in astonishment the apparently worried young creature gathered up an ugly, peevish pug dog in her arms, and, after having carefully wrapped a rag around the crabbed canne, she sprang nimbly into her carriage and was driven away.

"Do you have many such callers?" inquired the reporter.

"I average ten a day," replied the Doctor; "for I have made the diseases of the dog a specialty, and have built an extensive practice among the wealthy classes, as well as those of limited means, who own valuable animals. That young lady who passed out just as you entered professes to be much concerned about that pug she had in her arms. As for that matter, I might say all the ladies are worried more or less respecting the health of their pets when they call here, and many of them are really sincere in their sorrow. Well, that dog I was speaking of is suffering with the distemper, and its fair owner is anxious for me to rid her pet of the disease. I will visit her home to-morrow and prescribe for Prince, as she calls him, and will continue my visits every day for about a week or ten days, by which time I expect Prince will have recovered."

"How about the remuneration?" interjected his listener.

"Ah, that's the best part of it," laughingly responded the dog surgeon. "It's much more lucrative than attending to sick horses. I am rarely asked about my terms until my dumb patient has either recovered or died. My customers are usually rich ladies, whose pet dogs seem to be as dear to them as children. Consequently they are willing to pay well for the treatment I give. I often find it difficult to get such people to comply with my orders. Distemper carries off more dogs than any other disease. When I have such a case I always give explicit instruction to allow the sufferer plenty of fresh air. Frequently I discover the dog wrapped in blankets lying near a fire, which is the worst thing that could be done under the circumstances. His mistress unhesitatingly declares when I expose it whether that she could not bear to have her darling remain outdoors, when it was so pleasant to have him inside near her, where she could nurse him. Sometimes the animal dies, and one would hardly believe what a fuss is raised in some of these brown-stone mansions. Nearly as much sorrow is manifested as if a human being had died. When a large, noble, well-bred animal is carried off I never wonder at the sorrow expressed by a family; but I can't help getting disgusted when I see such a rumpus raised over the death of an ugly, cross grained, ill-bred pug, whose presence in this world is as yet unaccounted for in my mind, for I confess I have failed to discover of what use he is to anybody. But the owners of this species carry on worse than those who have valuable mastiffs or frolicsome little terriers sick. It happens occasionally that I am called up to attend a pet dog whose mistress is desirous of proclaiming to the world that she was obliged to secure the services of a regular veterinary surgeon. Well, I have no objection to this feeling taking a deep root, as it will be good for the dog doctors.

"Respecting the diseases that afflict this order of the brute creation, I can say that they are as many, as varied, and at the same time very much allied with the ill of humanity. One of the principle causes of sickness is over feeding. Pampered dogs that are fed continually on meats and other rich food occasion more trouble than the mangy curs who scour around the streets for a meal. Many pups are killed by excessive feeding alone. Plain, wholesome and nutritious food is sufficient; and if this were adhered to there would be less sickness among dogs. Distemper is as fatal to dogs as consumption is to the human family. It is a general catarrhal disorder of three different stages. It's not only cruel, but insane for people to stick a piece of cobbler's wax on the nose of the animal, as it only irritates the disease. No meat should be given the dog when suffering from this disease. A well-bred dog is more apt to die than a street cur, as the latter is more hardened and better able to withstand the affection. Pneumonia, pleurisy, bronchitis, laryngitis, influenza, &c. Vitus dance, small-pox, constipation, hemic and colic are a few of the diseases I am often called upon to cure. Consumption infrequently occurs. Inflammation of the lungs is quite a common thing, as it is caused by men kicking their dogs in the ribs."

—Philadelphia Cor. Chicago Tribune.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

All the Justices of the United States Supreme Court are now keeping house in Washington, including Justice Gray, who is a bachelor.

—Mr. E. Peshine Smith, the journalist who recently died in Rochester, was the author of a "Manual of Political Economy," which has been adopted as a text-book in several foreign universities, and which has been translated.

—Consul Stevens writes from China that the chain pumps, which were sold largely in this country not many years ago, have been in use in China over 2,000 years. Double-headed tacks, too, have been used there for many centuries.

—A book has just been issued in Vermont entitled "The Re-irrección of Christ from a Lawyer's Standpoint." It is an investigation conducted according to the laws of evidence, and it ends with a full acceptance of the resurrection of Christ as a historical fact.

—Miss Abbie Pulsifer, of Auburn, Me., has been a regular in the courts there for ten years. Other female shorthand writers are Miss Alice C. Nutt, of Chicago; Miss Ingall, of Washington; and Mrs. S. J. Farrows, of Boston, who reported an English speech delivered in German without translation.

—The well-known and favorite nursery song, "Three Blind Mice," dates back to 1609, during which year it originally appeared in a music-book, the authorship of which cannot be traced. The familiar nursery rhyme of "Little Jack Horner" was written in the sixteenth century, though by whom cannot be ascertained.

—Mr. Gladstone is an able man. He delivers brilliant speeches, reads Greek like English and is one of the best scholars alive. But at the same time he jumps around and howls like an illiterate plumber when, in kicking on a tight boot, a hole in the toe of his stocking causes that valuable article to shoot way back around his ankle. —Puck.

—That the dear people may have the best book possible for the guidance of their lives, some enterprising students in New York, believing that there is good in every religion and that no religion is perfect, have compiled what they consider useful in all the sacred writings and published it under the name of "Oahspe, The New Bible." The work claims to be a history of the heavens and the earth for the past 2,000 years.

THAT cocked eye of Ben Butler's seems to have been loaded.

THE Pendleton civil service bill has been approved by the president.

S. W. DORSEY has resigned the secretaryship of the national Republican committee.

THE Arkansas legislature on the 7th inst., re-elected A. H. Garland United States senator.

THE steamer Morning Star has been sold by the United States Marshal to Mr. David Pennywitt for $850.

THE Democrats of the West Virginia Legislature have nominated John E. Ken- na, for United States Senator.

HON. ISHAM G. HARRIS was re-elected United States senator by the Tennessee legislature on the first ballot.

A FIRE at Albany, N. Y., on Tuesday, destroyed half a million dollars worth of property. The handsome residence of Hon. Erastus Corning narrowly escaped destruction.

THE political views of the Hon. John G. Carlisle are more in accord with the sentiment of the people of the South and West than are those of any other member of Congress who is now named as a candidate for the Speakership. His defeat would be widely recognized as a misfortune.

GOVERNOR BLACKBURN has not been at Ashland and Catlettsburg as a recent issue of the Courier-Journal said. In an interview with a reporter for that paper, he said when his attention was called to the report:

"That was a canard. I never made any such visit."

"Then you don't know how the people in Eastern Kentucky are feeling about the coming trial of Neal and Craft?"

"No; how should I? I have neither sent a representative nor made any inquiry."

"Will you send any troops there?"

"That depends entirely on Judge Brown. If he asks for them I will send them—more than he asks for. If he wants 1,500 he will get 2,000."

"What companies will go, Governor?"

"The same ones that went before, and as many others as are necessary. All will be under the command of Maj. Allen in preference to any other officer. He is judicious, and at the same time the people up there know that he will shoot if they interfere."

"Do you anticipate any trouble?" was asked.

"No, I do not; I expect to send so many men that there can't be any. I do not intend to put up with any mob spirit, and an attempt of that kind will be nipped in the bud. There will be no temporizing. I can assure you," and the Governor grasped his cane more firmly, as he passed down the street.

An Ungrateful Owl.

From the Worcester Gazette.

A well-known place of physical refreshment in Concord, N. H., is presided over by John Adams, a man of such tender sensibilities that when, the other night, just as he was shutting up shop, he discovered a half frozen owl on the doorstep, he took the bird in and made it comfortable. When he retired for the night he left the owl perched upon the safe, to which one of its legs was fastened by a stout cord, and blinking with extreme gratitude and devotion. As soon as he had gone the owl bit the cord in two, devoured every fragment of food on a well-stocked counter, sampled every kind of liquor in the saloon, broke all the bottles and decanters within reach, and in the morning when the doors were opened was standing solemnly behind the bar ready for business.

"Do you anticipate any trouble?" was asked. "No, I do not; I expect to send so many men that there can't be any. I do not intend to put up with any mob spirit, and an attempt of that kind will be nipped in the bud. There will be no temporizing. I can assure you," and the Governor grasped his cane more firmly, as he passed down the street.

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient.

A sufferer from Headache writes:

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers."

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro.

Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable.

J. T. HAYES,"

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

The Rev. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

THURSDAY EVE., JANUARY 18, 1883.

ROSSER & McCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

OLD Luke has planted down his foot
And sends a notice, greeting,
To any mob that feels inclined
His soldiers to be eating,
That such repast he will provide,
Of hide and bones and wool.
But while they eat, by Jacks! he'll give
A great big bellyfull.

RIPLEY has another case of small-pox.

BLYTHE PHIPPS, a little boy, at Ripley, broke his leg while coasting.

SAMUEL SCOTT, who was shot recently near Ripley, by his nephew, it is now thought, will recover.

MESSRS. H. E. POGUE & CO.'s distillery resumed work on the 17th inst., and is now in full operation.

A BARN filled with tobacco belonging to Newton Cooper, at Bridgeport, this county, burned one day this week.

DEPUTY MARSHAL JAMES LONG, of Ripley, while cleaning his pistol, a few days ago,
accidentally wounded himself in the hand.

PERSONS having a chance on the music box belonging to Mr. P. Murphy are requested to call at R. M. Willett's saloon, on Market street, next Friday night at eight o'clock.

MESSRS. A. R. GLASCOCK & CO., have today applied the knife mercilessly to the prices of a fine line of pelisses, paletots and cloaks. These goods are very handsome and in style, the latest out. The ladies should go and look at them.

THE Lexington Transcript says:
A young gentleman of this city has just returned from a hunt through Breathitt' and Carter counties. He says the Neal and Craft trial is angrily discussed in every household, and both men and women are excessively bitter in their remarks. Everybody seems to have arms, and many guns which had been unused have been cleaned and put in repair. The people, he says express a determination to have the prisoners, even if they have to fight the militia to get them.

THE Covington Commonwealth in speaking of the presentation in that city recently of "Fogg's Ferry" by the Haylin theatrical company says: "Miss Ida Roff, a Covington girl, played Blanche in superb style. She is a beautiful reader and will make her mark in legitimate drama." The troupe, we are pleased to say, will soon appear in this city.

THE Scientific American is quoted as saying that "copal varnish applied to the soles of shoes, and repeated as it dries until the pores are filled and the surface shines like polished mahogany, will make the soles water-proof, and last as long as the uppers." One of the best things we know for farm boots, is an outer sole or tap, of wood, thoroughly dried, soaked in linseed oil and screwed to the bottom of the boot.
It isn't elegant, but it does keep the cold from "striking through" the bottom of the boot.

THE Carrollton, (Ky.) Democrat says:
Things begin to look truly business-like at R.
H. Stanton & Co.'s new planing mill. The heavy machinery, which is the finest, most substantial, latest improved and most costly to be had, has been placed. The shafting and all other gear have been arranged. The boiler and a fine sixty-five horse power engine, built by Smith, Meyers & Schnier, of Cincinnati, will be placed by February 1st, when it is proposed to start the planing mill, proper; but the firm will not be in condition to begin the manufacture of sash, doors and blinds until some time later, about fifteen other smaller machines having to be added for this purpose, which will be done with the smallest possible delay. Very few places can boast similar establishment as large as this one. It is big thing for Carrollton; an institution of which she may well be proud, being alike creditable to her enterprise and valuable to her business.

Trotting Circuit Arranged.

A meeting was held at Cincinnati, on the 16th inst., by prominent turfmen for the purpose of arranging a spring trotting circuit. Representatives of the various trotting associations of Ohio and Kentucky were present, the Maysville society being represented by Messrs. Geo. T. Simonds, L. S. Luttrell, J. D. Kehoe, S. S. Riley and J. C. Grove. Col. Hunt, of the Chester driving park association of Cincinnati, was elected chairman of the meeting and the following dates were agreed upon:

Maysville, May 22 to 25.
Cincinnati, May 29 to June 1.
Dayton, June 5 to 8.
Springfield, June 12 to 15.
Columbus, June 19 to 22.

Toledo, Detroit, Jackson and East Saginaw will probably be added to the list in the order named and possibly Louisville and Cleveland.

This arrangement gives a week to each association, beginning the races on Tuesday and closing Friday, with only one day to each meeting for postponed races. Those not trotted on the last day of the week, owing to unavoidable postponement, will be declared off, following the rule that has always governed at spring circuits.

It was also determined that the entries for the first three meetings close May 12 and that a committee consisting of one representative from each association meet with the circuit secretary on the 10th of February to arrange other details. The purses that the five associations offer will aggregate between $50,000 and $60,000. The meeting was harmonious, and the general impression prevailed of a highly successful inauguration of the spring trots.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Misses Louise Mace and Mollie Varian are visiting friends in Cincinnati.

Mr. Charlie Varian left Wednesday evening to visit friends in Winchester, Ohio, and at Cincinnati.

The following is from the Carrollton, (Ky.) Democrat:

J. S. Cassidy, of Maysville, was here this week looking for a place to start a furniture store. Don't know how he liked the opening.

A SUCCESSFUL entertainment given by the Jolly Pathfinders at Fon Du Lac, Mich., is thus noticed by the News, published at that place:

"You laugh to see and see to laugh, without any opportunity to catch a fresh breath. The entertainment is constituted similar to 'The Brook' by the Troubadors, but contains many more features of excellence. The performers are all good singers, and each adapted to his particular specialty. Unlike many other artists the Pathfinders individually do without overdoing. Nothing pertaining to vulgarity is exhibited, giving the public an evening of enjoyment, distinctly portraying the artistic abilities of ladies and gentlemen. The Pathfinders are deserving of success."

The troupe appears here next Friday evening.

THE following marriage licenses have been issued in Brown county, Ohio, since our last report:

William A. Robinson and Minnie A. Kincaid.
Martin Miller and Ellen Muel.
Alfred H. Mitchell and Rebecca J. Conover.
John W. Smallwood and Clemency A. Rush.
A. O. Scholter and Lizzie Benua.

COUNTY POINTS.

MT. GILEAD.

Joe Wallingford and wife returned last week from a visit to his mother, who resides near Fern Leaf.

It is said that William Enochs, the village blacksmith, is soon to remove with his family to Georgia.

Died, of tubercular meningitis, on the 20th ultimo, Ricie, daughter of Alex and Mary Bramble, aged 7 years.

Mrs. Ryan, who lives on the farm of H. Clay Stone, had a sale on last Saturday, selling of her farming utensils but did not succeed in disposing of her crop of tobacco, which is still for sale.

Mrs. Martha Wallingford, of Tollesboro, a great aunt of ours, departed this life at her home on the 7th inst., and her remains were interred in the Mt. Gilead cemetery on last Monday week.

George Calvert and his lady love took the first sleigh ride on the new turnpike road which is just completed from Mt. Gilead to Lewisburg. We were in the company that enjoyed the second ride.

We were a guest on last Saturday at an elegant dinner given by Mrs. H. Clay Stone to a number of friends. Elder J. H. Wallingford, wife and son being among those who were present.

We were surprised to learn that the merchant at Mt. Gilead had to carry our heavy trunk up such a steep grade unaided, supposing, of course, that the driver of the bus line from Maysville to Mt. Carmel would be accommodating enough to assist.

We would like to ask your Millwood correspondent what the whole lot of hogs averaged that he spoke of in his items last week. He said that they averaged 125 pounds each. This reminds us of the man that sold two hogs who, in speaking of their weight, said that one averaged 200 pounds and the other 300 pounds.

And your correspondent who keeps "Only Eye Open" is so ungallant as to insinuate that the reason why there are so few marriages in his vicinity is that the young gentlemen are not anxious to get married. Probably if he would open the other eye he would be enabled to see in a different light and could be induced to change his opinion. I wonder from what source he draws his conclusions! Does he draw on his imagination? Or has he had information on the subject from his masculine friends? If the latter is the case, we would say to him that there is an old Italian proverb that says: "Wait till you hear the other side." And let me here remark, that many times through life it would be well if we would all remember this maxim.

We attended the meeting at the old school Baptist church on last Saturday and Sabbath following, and listened to an excellent sermon delivered by J. H. Wallingford each day. The text on Saturday was taken from Phillips' 1st chapter from the 1st to the 7th verses inclusive, and the discourse on Sunday was preached from the third chapter of Romans, including the 20th to the 27th verses. Eld. Wallingford has ministered to the church at Mt. Gilead, and acceptably, too, for about twenty years. He was ordained to preach the gospel at 21 years of age. This church was constituted by Elder James Johnson and Wm. Payne in the year 1819. P. E. M.

MAYSICK.

E. P. Smith, one of Maysville's model young gentlemen was cutting around here during the last week with the belle of Mason county, Miss Bette Laytham.

Mrs. Riley Godon, after a long and protracted illness died last week, at her mother's, Mrs. Julia Laytham, near this place of consumption. She was buried in our cemetery. She leaves a husband and four little children to mourn their loss.

Last Saturday was the most disagreeable day of the season. Rainy, sleety and stormy.

A very sudden change in the weather last Tuesday, from midwinter to summer heat.

During the last week there was six burials in our cemetery four colored and two whites.

During the recent cold snap, ice was gathered three and a half to four inches thick.

Black Betsy, the old store and house cat of the Stonewall House died on the evening of the 15th inst. She was a great pet of the family and all visitors. Such is life—she was about fifteen years old. ROMEO.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. NANCY RYDER.

With dear ones who have long in death been sleeping,

Another loved one's gone and left us weeping,
But we shall meet again in the resurrection
Freed from all sin and pain through Christ's perfection.

We, too, shall change our frail condition,
Our faith and hope and love to full fruition;
Our immortal spirit fly through space unbounded

To dwell with saints on high by bliss surrounded.

By grace through faith this hope to us is given
To raise our spirit up from earth to heaven,
In that bright world where naught can sever,
To sing redeeming love with Christ forever.

Ayer's Hair Vigor improves the beauty of the hair and promotes its growth. It imparts an attractive appearance, a delightful and lasting perfume. While it stimulates the roots, cleanses the scalp, and adds elegance to luxuriance, its effects are enduring; and thus it proves itself to be the best and cheapest article for toilet use.

CURIOSITIES CAPTURED.

A Wild Man and Woman in the Mountains of New Mexico.

From the Denver Tribune.

Probably the greatest curiosity in the shape of a human being ever seen by Denver people is on exhibition at No. 300, Sixteenth street. The story of the wild man and the wild woman from the mountain fastness of the Pueblos is not entirely a myth. It is said these singular beings were captured in a cave near Los Crucis about two months ago by Captain Lovett, who has them in charge. Captain Lovett tells the strange story of their capture. For many months he had known of their existence and resolved to capture them. With a party of three others he discovered their hiding place in a cave. Relying upon his great physical strength, he entered the place with the intention of dragging the little people from their bed, when the man pounced upon him like a tiger. A desperate struggle ensued, and had not his comrades come quickly to his rescue, Captain Lovett would have been killed. So badly was he hurt that he was confined two weeks to his bed. Though the man will not weigh more than 85 pounds, he is said to be a creature of giant strength. After this encounter it required the combined strength of the rest of the party to conquer the little giant. When found, both were naked and utterly devoid of intelligence. Though they could communicate with each other in a guttural chatter resembling that of the monkey, there was not an articulation that in any wise assimilated a word in any language on earth.

A few days ago they were brought to Denver, and last night placed on exhibition at the place named. They seem to be utterly devoid of sense, but have become tractable by constant association with their keeper. They have the color of the Indian, and both are hideous in appearance. Whether the story of their wild life be true or not, they are idiots, and probably belong to the Pueblo tribe.

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

To make steak tender, lay it on a large flat dish in a mixture of three tablespoonfuls of salad oil and one of vinegar, and let it remain at least half an hour on each side. This will make the toughest steak tender when cooked.—Chicago News.

To make a mutton-pie, take the chops from the fore-quarter, and season highly with pepper and salt, and put into a dish with alternate layers of pared and sliced apples, and sprinkle over the top a little chopped onion. Put a crust over the top and bake for half an hour in a hot oven.—Chicago News.

Coffee-grounds make a highly successful filling for a pin-cushion. They must be dried perfectly before using. Put them in a bag and hang behind the kitchen stove till you have enough that are dry to fill the cushion. They do not gather moisture and consequently do not rust the needle.—New York Post.

Common fishing cord is used now for coarse crochet instead of macrame lace. It is less clumsy to work with and equally effective. Crocheted with large needles and left with heavy fringe, it serves admirably as bordering for little tables covered with cloth or plush. Hand-bags are also made of it.—Detroit Post.

To protect the ironing-board from dust, take two paper bags, cut the bottom off from one, and paste this one to the top of the other to make the required length; when done, slip this over the board. The outer covering of the board need not be taken off after using; if this care is taken, much time is saved.

Where potatoes are stored in pits, a wisp of straw two or three inches in diameter, extending from the bottom of the heap to the open air, will afford the necessary ventilation. A six or eight inch drain tile, or wooden tube filled with straw, will answer a still better purpose. To prevent the entrance of water, a bunch of hay or straw may be placed over the top.—Farm and Fireside.

Bee-keepers are reaching the conclusion that to secure the best results they must cultivate honey-plants. Alsike clover is said to be equal to white clover. Buckwheat, basswood, the blackberry and raspberry are all recommended for bee food. Catnip, motherwort, rape, mustards, sweet clover and Rocky Mountain bee-plant are mentioned to be sown in waste places.—Chicago Tribune.

Potatoes and eggs cooked together make a palatable dish. Peel some boiled Irish potatoes, and when perfectly cold cut up in small pieces about the size of a bean, and season with salt and pepper. For a quart of potatoes use the yolks of six eggs and the whites of three beaten well together. Melt some butter in a frying pan and put in the potatoes, and when quite hot stir in the eggs. Season and serve hot.—Chicago News.

Tree Planting: After the young tree is set so that the lowest limb is on the southwest side, and the tree is inclined about five degrees in the same direction, make a mound about the tree to a height of eighteen inches, and pack the soil firmly about the stem of the tree. This will prevent the mice from gnawing the trunks, or if girdled by rabbits, enough will remain unharmed below the ground to produce a strong shoot, which will form a vigorous tree. The mound is a very good substitute for a stake until leveled down in the spring.—Farm and Fireside.

A Highly-prized Jewel.

She entered a jewelry store and said she wanted a ring set with consistency. "A what-ency?" asked the perplexed young man, who was trying to master the art of looking into the bowels of a watch through a microscope, puncturing one of its cog-wheels with his penknife, and charging two dollars for the job. "I want," exclaimed the young lady, "a ring set with a jewel called consistency. I have often read about such a gem, but never saw one." (This, as the reader may have already surmised, is a lie. When we utter an untruth, we always own up.)—The Judge.
